REPUBLICAN COUNCIL OF WOMEN MEETS AT DOYLESTOWN

Candidates Warn That "New Dealers Must Be Given A Crushing Defeat Nov. 8th"

MR. LIVENGOOD SPEAKS

Mrs. Hannah Durham Predicts That Republicans Will Win the Election

(By Staff Reporter)

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 28.—Warning in no uncertain terms of the goal of those who follow the methods and manners of the despots of the old world, William S. Livengood, Jr., Somerset, candidate for secretary of internal affairs, drove home to the women of Bucks County, yesterday, the dire need of crushing defeating for those who follow in the foot-steps of the New Deal leaders, and the necessity of returning to power in public office Republicans who will uphold the ideals for which those who founded America fought and died. Mr. Livengood was one of the afternoon speakers at the Fall meeting of Bucks County Council of Republican Women, meeting in the Doylestown Country Club.

"If we watch history we find that those despots have five main goals in mind, for the undermining of the country, namely, to make a large portion of the people dependent on the government for sustenance; secondly, an attempt to destroy the free courts; third and fourth, destruction of the public schools and the church; and fifth, attack upon the family as a social unit.

"Americans, we must awake from our lethargy," he warned in stirring tones. "I don't know how keenly you realize how close to the edge of the abyss of oblivion we are here in the United States. In the State of Pennsylvania and in the country as a whole attempts have been made by those now in power to attack our heritage in most of the points I have mentioned. Steps have already been taken to centralize control of the schools. We know that thousands upon thousands of the people are now in the position where they are dependent upon the government for sustenance; attacks have been made upon the courts, and there remain but two steps of the five to be attempted. Are we going to let them do it? Decidedly not. This is the preliminary skirmish that precedes the battle in the country in 1940, and it will help decide which way Pennsylvania will go. And we know full well that it will be by devotion to a cause that we will raise Pennsylvania from the dust and let her look into the stars."

Introduced by the council president, Mrs. John W. Cooper, Pineville, Mr. Livengood commenced his address by telling the trends of the present campaign. He told of how the ardor of the people of Pennsylvania is undimmed, when it concerns fighting for a cause that they know is right and just. "Two thousand stood in the rain at Osceola the other night for three-quarters of an hour when I spoke there upon invitation, and a few years ago no Republican would have been asked to enter that town and country. I am absolutely confident we are going to win. But it is not enough that we win. I want to lick the 'stuffing' out of them."

Stating that his boast is that he "wears no man's collar," Mr. Livengood informed that "I am not a rubber stamp."

Congratulating the women of the State of Pennsylvania on keeping the spirit of Republicanism alive, he said that he realized the women were not the least undaunted by previous defeats.

The rejuvenated spirit of the Republican party was heralded by the speaker. "You know in my county, in Devon, they call we Republicans 'The frosty sons of thunder,' and I have my own theory as to why they do it. It is because when frosty fall and election rolls around, we roll up our sleeves, and beat the Democrats so bad that they crawl in a hole until it thunders the following spring. And I am glad Old Somerset County has kept the faith with Bucks County."

Continuing, he informed: "There is serious reason why Somerset and Bucks Counties have stayed Republican. They have always stood as a bulwark for what we consider the finest in American life. Our forebears have lived in these counties for generations, and being of sturdy, old American stock, they had implanted in their minds, and we have had in ours, a love of the things that are really American. I am proud of my heritage, for one of my forebears came here from Europe with nothing but his Bible, his two strong hands and his dear wife. But he was unafraid. He wanted freedom to worship as he pleased, and to live a life of peace. And it is people such as you and I who stand to lose the most if the present administration is continued."

Miss Alethia Myers Tells of European Trip

Exchange club members, meeting at the Elks' Home last evening, were taken on a trip through several countries of Europe when Miss Alethia Myers, Bristol High School English instructor, told of her journey abroad during the past summer.

Miss Myers related incidents on her ocean trip and then told of the many interesting events that she encountered while in the different European countries.

BRISTOL WOMAN ON STAND IN SPY TRIAL

Mrs. Werner Gudenberg Tells of Lonkowski Having Visited Her Husband

TALKED "IN GERMAN"

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Kate M. Busch, who has testified she was impounded by the Nazi spy ring to become their "Washington siren," resumes the witness stand today in Federal Court, against three spy defendants.

United States Attorney Lamarr Hardy and his associates are counting on the pump nurse to trace the international espionage between Berlin and the United States.

Mrs. Werner Gudenberg, whose husband, formerly of Bristol, Pa., was indicted in the spy plot, but fled, testified that she met William Lonkowski, identified as a German agent, twice. Lonkowski and her husband both worked at the Curtis-Wright plane plant. She testified that the first time Lonkowski came to their home, he said he had been sent by Otto Voss, a defendant in the trial. On that occasion, Lonkowski and Gudenberg "talked a bit in German, which I did not understand," she testified. She could not say whether or not Lonkowski brought anything to her husband.

Voss had known since 1932, Mrs. Gudenberg said. She was not aware that there ever was any correspondence between her husband and Voss "except birthday greetings."

Mrs. J. Markley Streep Dies in Abington Hospital

Lillian J., wife of J. Markley Streep, nee Rousseau, died in Abington Hospital last evening.

Mrs. Streep was a lifelong resident of Bristol, and died after a short illness.

She is survived by her husband, J. Markley Streep, four children, Evelyn, John, Robert and Chester, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rousseau of Bristol; four brothers, Elmer, Penn Valley; William, Clifford, and Earl of Bristol; six sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Efferson, Mrs. Ella Hampson, Mrs. Anna Combs, Miss Etta Rousseau, Miss Gladys Rousseau of Bristol, and Mrs. Dorothy Broadnax, of Oxford Valley.

Relatives and friends, also members of the Bristol Presbyterian Church, Bristol Lodge, Daughters of America, No. 58, members of the Mothers' Association of Bristol public schools and employees of the William H. Grundy Co., are invited to attend the funeral on Sunday at 2 p. m. from her late residence, 261 Roosevelt street, Bristol.

Further services in the Bristol Presbyterian Church at 230, Intermittent in Bristol Cemetery. Friends may call Saturday evening. The funeral is under the direction of George Molden.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Strained Relations

Washington, Oct. 27. THAT within so short a time after his Ambassador to Great Britain had made a speech urging the democracies and dictatorships of the world to co-operate for the common good, Mr. Roosevelt should deliver an address totally different in tone and tone, is more or less sensational. It at least calls for an examination of the relations between the two men—particularly as Mr. Kennedy's speech was submitted and approved before being made.

IT is not an exalted story. Undoubtedly the reaction in the American press to his most recent utterance must have surprised Mr. Kennedy. It was generally bad. Al-

TO FACE MURDER CHARGE IN DEATH OF HUSBAND

Mrs. Stella Alfonsi and Herman Petrillo Alleged To Be Involved in Murder Try

$2,000 POLICY INVOLVED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Plans are being made to lodge charges of murder today against Mrs. Stella Alfonsi, 29, of Ann street, and Herman Petrillo, 49, of Langhorne. The man and woman, according to the police theory, conspired to kill Ferdinand Alfonsi and collect a $2,000 insurance policy placed on him without his knowledge.

Mrs. Alfonsi is a former resident of Bristol, Pa. It is alleged by the police that Mrs. Alfonsi and Petrillo resorted to arsenic, which it is alleged was fed to Alfonsi in small doses in his food over a long period of time, when they failed in an effort to have him strangled to death, police contend.

Results of an autopsy yesterday will not be known until the inquest but the man and woman will be arraigned today on the murder charge before Magistrate Dogole.

Afternoon Card Party Occurs at Cooper Home

COUNCILMAN FALLON SERIOUSLY INJURED

Run Down by Auto As He Crosses Main Street in New Brunswick, N. J.

SKULL IS FRACTURED

A Bristol councilman was seriously injured last night when run down by an automobile in New Brunswick, N. J. The councilman, Martin J. Fallon, was reported this morning to be in an "extremely serious condition" by physicians at St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, where he was taken immediately after the accident.

Mr. Fallon suffered a fractured skull and a compound fracture of the left leg, reported as being "very serious" by the attending physicians.

Mr. Fallon, employed with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's police department for many years, was struck as he crossed the main street, according to information obtained by telephone today.

Mr. Fallon's folks were summoned early today when Bristol police received a teletype message at 1:32 a. m.

Mr. Fallon resides with his family at 409 Buckley street. He has been the Democratic representative in Bristol Borough Council, from the fourth ward, for many years. He is the oldest member of council in regard to years of service in that body.

Radio To Be Purchased For Laurel Bend School

The Parent-Teacher Association of Laurel Bend School, held its meeting last evening in the school building with Herman Neitzel presiding.

A general discussion ensued on various subjects. Arrangements were made for Mr. Neitzel to purchase a radio for the school. Most of the members attended in Halloween attire, which caused much merriment.

A stringed orchestra group, taught by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooley, Langhorne, pleased with selections. The orchestra consisted of mandolins, banjos and guitars, with the following musicians playing: Holman Fite, Henry Killian, John Killian, Herbert Yates, Richard Potts, Carl Vetter, Edwin Vetter and Morris Dayhoff, Jr.

Refreshments of doughnuts, coffee, cocoa and candy were served, with Mrs. Walter Prickett as chairman of the hostess committee. The next meeting will be the fourth Tuesday of November.

Announce Judges For Big Hallowe'en Parade

Entries are pouring in for the Bristol Hallowe'en parade which is to be held Monday evening at eight o'clock. A large number of entries have been received from out-of-town organizations. It is announced today by the committee. Many of the entries are being received by telephone.

It was stated today by the committee that the Red Men with a float and a band of 40 pieces will come in from South Langhorne.

Charles G. Rathke, commander of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, will be the marshal of the parade.

The judges are announced as follows:

Miss Sara Granzow, of Granzow's Dancing Academy; Dudley E. Bell, Leo Lynn, Warren P. Snyder, Andrew MacArthur and Miss Eunice Williams.

Much favorable comment has been received concerning the many prizes to be offered.

WM. S. LIVENGOOD, JR., Candidate for Sec'y Internal Affairs

HOUSE COMMITTEE DOES NOT DARE CALL EARLE

Sen. Owlett, Speaking Here, Says Neither Governor Nor Associates Will Appear

ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD

The direct charge that Governor Earle and the 13 high officials of his Administration charged with graft and corruption in office do not dare appear before the House Investigating Committee before election was made here, last night, by Senator G. Mason Owlett of Tioga, in addressing a Republican rally in the Grand Theatre. Senator Owlett declared also that the Democratic members of the House Committee do not dare call Governor Earle or any of his associates to answer the charges of graft and corruption.

"It is evident now that neither the Governor nor the gang around him who are charged with corruption and graft will be called before the House Investigating Committee, nor will they attempt to appear before the Committee before election," Senator Owlett declared.

"The answer is obvious to everyone in Pennsylvania. They do not dare. 'The citizens of Pennsylvania have seen almost daily for months now the frantic efforts of Governor Earle to prevent an honest and complete investigation of the serious charges made against him and members of his Administration by the former Democratic Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti. Everything possible that could be done to avoid a real investigation, at least until after election, has been done by the Governor."

"In every action and in every word, the Governor has attempted to balk not only the grand jury, the court and the courts, but also the legislative inquiry into these charges. What has become of the spirit of the 'holier-than-thou' demand of the Governor even before the special session was called."

Prepared by George Earle to Tune of Million Dollars, Republicans

SKUNK NOW HOLDS NOSE

William S. Livengood, Jr., Republican candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs, told the audience that filled the Grand Theatre at the Republican rally, last evening, that while in Harrisburg yesterday he had learned that another juicy plum is being prepared by "Grateful" George Earle for Matt McCloskey in the way of plans for a million dollar garage for the free storage of the automobiles of jobholders.

"While in that city today I learned that plans are in the making for the construction of a two-story underground garage, beneath the plaza east of the main Capitol building."

"This huge expenditure of taxpayers' money is to be made so that jobholders may have free storage of their cars. All these tax eaters will have to do, with this garage complete, will be to roll into an underground entrance, step from their automobiles, turn them over to caretakers, be hoist by elevators to their offices, and return in the evening to step dry-shod and comfortable into the cars waiting for them. And all this without the necessity of even a ten cent tip to the state-paid garage men."

"The estimate cost of this latest McCloskey plum is a million dollars, but engineers tell me it may cost twice that sum, for much of the capital plaza is underlain by deep layers of solid rock."

"The situation is ideal for McCloskey, who already is on the ground with his construction forces, temporary offices, which threaten to become permanent, and his own hand-picked inspectors. Plans are so arranged that as the finance building he is erecting is completed, he can transfer his work-

THE THINKING YOUNG PEOPLE OF THIS STATE WANT TO SEE INDUSTRY ENCOURAGED BECAUSE IT MEANS OPPORTUNITY FOR THEM

Miss Anna K. Hawkes, Edgely, Thrills Large Audience At Republican Rally Held in Grand Theatre — "Young People Want A Leader Who Knows How To Materialize Aims, Rather Than Idealize Them," She Says.

A young Republican woman of Bristol Township, Miss Anna K. Hawkes, Edgely, who has leaped recently to local prominence as a public speaker, delivered a smashing political talk last night at the Republican rally held in the Grand Theatre, here, under the auspices of the Young Republican Club of Bristol.

Miss Hawkes with convincing oratory drove home the facts of this campaign in a way that left a deep impression upon her hearers.

"There is a third group of voters thoroughly aroused to the issues of this campaign," said Miss Hawkes, speaking as a young Republican. "This group is composed of young Republicans and young Democrats. These are the thinking young people of this state. They want to see industry encouraged, because industry means opportunity for them. They are frankly critical of the 'Little New Deal' theories. From schools and colleges filled with theories, they find their application difficult. They want a leader who knows

DISHONESTY IN GOVT WILL BE REPUDIATED BY VOTERS, NOV. 8TH

Wm. S. Livengood, Jr., and Senator G. Mason Owlett Make Stirring Addresses

MISS HAWKES SPEAKS

Howard I. James, Esq., Charles L. Gerlach Also Address The Big Audience

"There are only two issues in this campaign," according to William S. Livengood, Jr., Republican candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs. "And those two issues are JOBS and HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT."

"Men want jobs for themselves; women want jobs for their fathers, their husbands, their sons and their daughters."

In this manner the vital and important issues of the campaign which comes to an end on November 8th, were summed up last night by a man termed "the best orator in Pennsylvania today."

Livengood, along with the Hon. G. Mason Owlett, Senator from Tioga County; Miss Anna K. Hawkes, Howard I. James, Esquire, candidate for State Senator from Bucks County; and Charles L. Gerlach, candidate for Congress from the Bucks-Lehigh District, spoke at the Republican rally held in the Grand Theatre, here, last night. The rally was under the auspices of the Young Republican Club of Bristol. Fifteen hundred people crowded into the theatre and listened, with eagerness and interest to the discussion of the issues of the campaign by a galaxy of noted speakers. Seated upon the stage were the officers of the Young Republican Club, candidates and the speakers. The American Legion Cadets at the conclusion of their parade through the Borough marched into the theatre and in snappy fashion played a selection. There was music furnished during the evening by the Schnitzel Band of Allentown.

In opening the meeting, Lawrence Monroe, president of the Young Republican Club of Bristol, welcomed the gathering and expressed the gratification of the Young Republicans at seeing such a large attendance at this the first big meeting ever held under the auspices of their organization. Mr. Monroe also expressed the Club's appreciation to those who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman was introduced as the chairman of the meeting and stated to the audience that he believed that this would be the last time that he would ever appear before an audience in Bristol as an official of Bucks County. Senator Buckman retires as State Senator this year. He expressed his gratification and thanks for the support which the Republicans of Bristol and Bucks County have given him during his 30 years in public life. "I appreciate being invited to preside at this meeting," he said.

Senator Buckman presented Wilson L. Yeakel and Thomas B. Stockham, both candidates for re-election to the State Assembly. They were greeted with applause.

Charles L. Gerlach was introduced and in his opening remarks told the audience that the people of Pennsylvania did not want to be represented by any "rubber stamp congressman."

"Men and women want jobs and not relief. Men and women want to buy things. Industrialists want to produce these things. Business men want to sell them, but you and I don't have the money to buy them."

"Something is entirely wrong. 'Manufacturers are afraid to start production which would put millions back to work because of the uncertainty.'"

"Business men are afraid to stock their shelves with merchandise for the same reasons. 'Workingmen cannot buy the things they want and need because they have no money with which to buy or because they are conserving the small assets that remain.'"

This whole program has been an insult to the American people."

The one woman speaker of the evening, Miss Anna K. Hawkes, Edgely, was given a very favorable reception. Her remarks were well chosen and in plain language, easily understood. She spoke from the viewpoint of a woman, saying, "The women of Pennsylvania were the first to see the seriousness of our state situation. They had to do the buying. They had to reckon with high food costs, and there is no voice on earth persuasive

LOOKS PRETTY DIRTY

There is a new slogan in the Pennsylvania state campaign this year. It is this: "Jones or Jail!"

If you don't get the significance of this at first sight, you may do so if you recall the various indications of scandals connected with the outgoing Earle administration in this state. Of course, most of these charges, perhaps all of them, remain to be proved. But there is some significance to be found in the desperate efforts which that administration has made to sidetrack a grand jury investigation, and the very deep anxiety with which the Democrat organization is said to face the possibility of the election of a Republican.

So there is point in this slogan, though it is of Republican creation. The intimation is that if the Democrat party fails to elect its candidate for Governor, there is a likelihood that some outstanding Democrats may go to jail. You see, there is some evidence that various of these persons have enjoyed rather large loans from contractors who have favorable relations with the state. And there is declared to be no end of political pressure in WPA administration, pressure which takes regular political contributions out of the small pay checks of the workers.

One may not know just what all the facts are, but if half of what is said is true, then the condition is so filthy that it can best be described by Mischel Auer's outstanding line in "You Can't Take It With You"—"It stinks."

TAXATION PROBLEMS

Delegates to the thirty-first annual conference of the National Tax Association are pictured as pessimistic over prospects for bringing order to the chaotic national tax system.

Every plan made for regularizing duplicate and unscientific taxation, it is explained, is straightaway superannuated by the demands of Government for more money. So rapidly do these demands multiply, thanks to the ingenuity and enterprises of Government spenders, that no reference point of revenue needs can be established as the basis for tax reform. The most scientific tax structure calculated to produce a billion will be woefully unscientific, if asked day after tomorrow to squeeze two billion from the pockets of taxpayers.

It is quite probable that, nationally speaking and including the Federal Government's heavy borrowings as revenue, we already are very near the economically safe limit.

A straw poll shows California sentiment 2 to 1 against $30-every-Thursday, and the smart pensioner will settle now for a sawbuck on Wednesday.

ers by easy stages to the proposed garage.
"This finance building is no credit to the commonwealth, despite the millions being spent on it, no matter what Earle's whitewashers may say. I have seen it and I know. The stone is leaking quarry-sap all over the place and is not of the uniform color specified. As compared with the nearby Education Building it looks like something the cat dragged in."

With great ardor for the cause of honest government, and sincere public service which he wishes to give, Mr. Livengood said to those who gathered in the theatre: "The people of Pennsylvania have heard the call that has come to them. It is like the call of a running tide—it is a wild call—a clear call, and it cannot be denied. There are only two issues in this present campaign and they are jobs and honesty in government."

"When George Earle said nearly four years ago that he would see that there were jobs for all in the state who wished them, there were then almost a million out of work in Pennsylvania. And now after four years, there are almost two million men and women unemployed, on relief and public assistance rolls. And Alvin Jones is willing to swallow the nauseating mess at Harrisburg. He tells us: 'Make me governor of Pennsylvania, and I'll begin where Earle leaves off.' And now you know at last what Governor Earle meant when he said that one-half of the men and women of Pennsylvania will be supporting the other half—and Jones would begin where Earle leaves off. And if Jones would begin where Earle leaves off, we will have what Earle said we would have."

Giving very serious thought to the conditions as found at present, the speaker informed that at 38 he is still young enough to be concerned as to his own future. "How many who have graduated from Bristol high school during the past four years have jobs or any prospects of jobs? How many have been doomed to eat the black bread of idleness? For the last four years I have looked into the eyes of the young people of Pennsylvania and have seen the bright look of hope die there. What does this administration hold out for them? It holds out the blind alley of a project job.
"Mothers and fathers of Bucks County, is this all you want for your sons and daughters? It isn't what I want for my son and daughter. I want them to have careers, so they will not be subjected to the tyranny of a two-by-four boss."

He warned that there is rapidly growing an army of young people who have no hope. "An army that in time might become the fertile field for seeds of communism! We must take care that there is not a designing politician who might look with greedy eyes upon our sons and daughters and plant such seeds. Let us see that the wheels of industry of Pennsylvania get going. And when we take office in Harrisburg the concern of the young as well as of the old people shall be our concern."

Speaking of dishonesty in affairs as found in Harrisburg at the present time, Mr. Livengood claimed: "Every man has the ability to be honest, to be sincere, and to listen to the dictates of common decency. Have we had honesty, and sincerity, and common decency in the affairs at Harrisburg?"

After telling of the pet skunk which Governor Earle keeps in the executive mansion, the speaker said that: "In comparison the stench of Earle's administration is so bad that the skunk smells like violets." He then mentioned that the skunk was missing a few days ago and when found was before the front door of the "white-wash" commission in Harrisburg, "and the skunk was holding its nose."

Continuing, Mr. Livengood said: "Frightened by the rapidly rising sentiment for the election of Judge Arthur H. James, the Democratic bosses in a desperate attempt to stem this running tide have resorted to a campaign of unjustified vituperation. Realizing that their candidates are already badly distanced in the race they have turned to the showman's practice of setting up bogeymen to distract the attention of the voters."

"To their silly charges, the long and honorable career of Judge James, his impeccable character and reputation for independence afford sufficient answer. In all the 16 years that he has held public office the breath of scandal has never touched his name."

"The voters will contrast this record with the brief three and a half years of George Earle's scandal-ridden administration, now ending ingloriously in an investigation by both the Legislature and the Grand Jury."

"This snelly mess Alvin Jones has publicly declared he proposes to carry on, expand and enlarge."

"Does Alvin Jones believe the voters have forgotten who put him into this race and why?"

"And who were these backers of Alvin Jones?"

"Desperate Davey Lawrence, the Mysterious Mr. So-and-So of the Erie Gravel Scandal, now desperately trying to cover his tracks; Grateful George Earle, who repays the favors of $30,000 private loans by awarding fat State contracts; Jumping Jack Kelly, the only man alive fast enough on his political pedals to knock a factory out of Pennsylvania and then jump to Virginia in time to secure contract for re-erection in its new home; Avaricious Al Greenfield, who has reduced borrowing from busted banks to such an exact science that he was able to take $300,000 out of the back door while frantic depositors clamored in vain at the front; and last, but by no means least of this gang of political pickpockets, none other than Master-Mind Matt McCloskey, boss political contractor, who with ten million dollars worth of public building contracts in his pocket, is the man behind the scenes who pulls the strings which cause Grateful George and Anxious Alvin to dance at his command.

"Master-Mind Matt's achievement of a long career in political ledgerdom came last spring when, reaching into his high silk hat, he pulled out Anxious Alvin as his candidate for Governor, and as he held him by the ears for the inspection of John L. Lewis is reported to have said 'You don't need to worry about Charles Alvin Jones, Mr. Lewis. He will do what we tell him. We propose to form a little board of directors and you can be on it. I guarantee that Jones, when he's Governor, will do nothing without my ok.'"

"This is the merry crew who shout wolf, wolf at Arthur James, in the hope of distracting public attention while they continue to pick the pockets of the poor of Pennsylvania."

"Such cheap tactics do not fool the voters. They remember that Desperate Dave, Grateful George, Jumping Jack, Avaricious Al and Master-Mind Matt not only supported Anxious Alvin at the primaries, but are now face to face with a Grand Jury investigation on charges of conspiracy, graft, corruption and coercion."

"It is no mere coincidence that these two groups are the same. It is their hope that by putting Anxious Alvin in the Governor's chair they will be able to continue blocking the grand jury investigation into their conduct which the public of Pennsylvania demand."

The trial that Judge James promises when he becomes governor was mentioned. "The innocent will stand acquitted, and the guilty will be sent to jail. And Sam Lewis and I will be sitting on the board of pardons, and we'll see that they serve their terms."

Gift Shower Tendered To Mrs. Anthony Capella

A surprise shower was tendered Mrs. Anthony Capella, 452 Logan St., Monday evening, by Mrs. Samuel Rossi and Mrs. Anna Antonelli, and held at Mrs. Rossi's home, Logan street. Those invited were members of the Sewing Circle of which Mrs. Capella is a member.

A social time was enjoyed, and a buffet supper was served to: Mrs. Anthony Capella, Mrs. Samuel Rossi, Mrs. Anna Antonelli, Mrs. Faust Clotti, Mrs. Anthony Pileenti, Mrs. Anthony Monti, Mrs. Anna Salerno, Mrs. Louis Donofrio, Mrs. M. Duva, the Misses Leona Clotti, Pasquale Donofrio, Mary and Anna Bevin, Mary Delia, Dorothy Campbell, Violet Capriotti, Benedetta Salerno, Antonetta and Florence Mazzanti, Bristol; Miss Helen Clotti, Holmesburg.

Arthur Seyfert Is Speaker at Rotary Meeting

Arthur Seyfert, well-known local fuel dealer, was the guest speaker at the regular weekly session of the Rotary Club at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon. His talk dealt with the history of the coal industry.

President Lester D. Thorne was in charge of the meeting which also celebrated the birthdays of members who were born in October. Those members in this list included Stanford Runyan, Lester Shoemaker, George Arvey, Dr. H. Doyle Webb, E. Leslie Helwig, Bristol; Jesse Everett, Hulmeville, and Harry Watson, Fallsington, the oldest member of the Club who was 80 years of age last Tuesday.

Mr. Seyfert told of the formation of coal and how the bituminous coal beds differ from the anthracite beds. The latter beds have only 14 veins while the soft coal beds are not limited. The speaker pointed out the stages of development in the thousands of years that are necessary to form coal.
"Black rocks or coal was used as a fuel by the Chinese 360 B. C." the speaker stated.

"In 1776 coal was first discovered in outcroppings in this country. Nicholas Allen discovered coal in the Schuylkill area in 1792. It was first mined in 1803, but it was not until 1820 that real trade began and it was then hauled to Philadelphia."

The hard coal area in Pennsylvania contains 3300 square miles. About 1-5 of this area is being worked. Seyfert also stated that this area would make a strip 120 miles long and 30 miles wide.

The allied industries of coal were also mentioned, as well as the enormous expansion of the industry during the World War.

"Anthracite is still one of the best known fuels, and with the modern equipment it is very easily handled," Seyfert concluded.

William White, Doylestown Rotarian, was a visitor at the meeting and there was also a guest from Philadelphia, Edgar A. Smith, well known engineer, was taken in as a new member.

At the meeting on Thursday afternoon, which will be held at the Elks' Home, the members will be shown pictures of several South American countries and boat trips to that country.

cially seduced by the British; that as an ambassador he lacked both taste and discretion. In brief, Mr. Kennedy got a journalistic lambasting so completely in contrast to his accustomed laudation that it could hardly help but be a shock to him. And in Washington the Administration, noting all this, seemed deliberately to add to his embarrassment by inspiring one set of reflectors to assert that while he had submitted his speech before it was made it expressed only his personal view, and letting another set insist that the speech had never been submitted at all, which was not true.

WHILE many of the things recently said about Mr. Kennedy were unkind, unfair and unjustified, nevertheless there is reason to believe the net will not do him any harm—at least in the White House. Because the fact is that Mr. Kennedy's favorable publicity up to the time of his latest utterance had been so overwhelming that a certain resentment, not to say jealousy, had been created in the very highest quarters. It is pleasant to think that men occupying the Presidency are above such pettiness, but that has not been true about all of our Presidents in the past and it is certainly not true about the present President. Every posted newspaper man and every intimate of the President knows that the extraordinarily favorable press which was Mr. Kennedy's until a week ago, has irritated Mr. Roosevelt more than a little.

IT was not so much the volume of the praise that was resented as the fact that so much of it came from critics of Mr. Roosevelt's policies, the mere mention of whose names raises the Presidential blood pressure. There is no secret about that any more than there is any secret that last June when Mr. Kennedy, after having been mentioned as a possible Presidential candidate, returned to America, it was the White House which "planted" some very nasty stories, in selected newspapers around the country, to the general effect that the Ambassador was overplaying his hand.

and "getting too big for his boots." In addition Mr. Roosevelt in private conversation has spoken slightly of Mr. Kennedy, expressed his belief that he has employed high powered press agents to promote his Presidential candidacy. No one aware of these facts doubts that Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed seeing the heretofore greatly eulogized Kennedy get into hot water; enjoyed increasing the temperature by his own speech.

MR. KENNEDY knows all this; Mr. Roosevelt knows that Mr. Kennedy knows it and Mr. Kennedy knows that Mr. Roosevelt knows he knows it. And all their friends know it. Yet such is the humbuggery of politics that each still pretends to be the loving friend of the other. They protest their loyalty in public; maintain a hearty surface cordiality and retain their official relationship, not because of either personal friendship or political sympathy—at bottom there is little of either—but solely because each needs or wants what the other can give and it pays better to keep together than to break. That's the plain fact about the present Roosevelt-Kennedy relationship. It isn't very pretty, and, of course, it won't last long, but it is entirely true.

WHEN THESE facts are considered it is easy to understand why the recent roasting of Mr. Kennedy was pleasant reading in the White House; why a Kennedy, chastened and subdued by an embittering experience, a Kennedy nursing his bruises and licking his wounds, will be personally more popular around the White House when he next returns than the buoyant, bubbling, exuberant Kennedy, elated with journalistic butter and confident that he knew all the answers, who was here last summer. It is rather a commentary on the rewards of public life—particularly when the fact is that the Kennedy speech not only made the ordinary Pennsylvania citizens who have our opportunity to correct it on election day.

The Thinking Young People Of This State Want To See Industry Encouraged

"It is not surprising that we were slow in grasping the seriousness of our state situation. It seems to be a human failing that we cannot become thoroughly alarmed about calamities until they occur on our own doorstep. Governor Earle's swashbuckling performance as the self proclaimed hero of the Pennsylvania political scene, didn't bother us at first. We weren't even roused to action when he first cast Business in the role of villain. But when, using corporate taxes as a cannon, he drove a large part of business out of the state, we became genuinely alarmed. Other concerns, although seriously wounded by his attack, have remained here. To keep going they have had to let some employees go. And so costs and prices have gone up and wages have not kept pace.

"The women of Pennsylvania were the first to see these results. They had to do the buying. They had to reckon with high food costs. And there's no voice on earth persuasive enough to convince a woman that she is enjoying 'a more abundant life' when her butcher's voice is telling her that meat has gone up 5c a pound! She wants to see higher wages, not higher prices. That is why she is going to support the Republican ticket on Nov. 8th.

"For the same reasons the working man is going to vote the straight Republican ticket. By working man I mean both the employee and the employer, because—capitalist and laborer are similar I find, one carries his load on his back, the other on his mind!

"There is still a third group of voters, thoroughly aroused to the issues of this campaign. This group is composed of young Republicans and young Democrats. These are the thinking young people of this state. They want to see industry encouraged because industry means opportunity for them. They are frankly critical of the 'little new deal' theories. Fresh from schools and colleges filled with theories, they find their application, in this practical world, difficult. They want a leader who knows how to materialize aims rather than idealize them.

"They demand a leader of unquestioned integrity. That is why they want to investigate those tales which have drifted from backstage, tales of intrigue and graft and corruption. So loud have these shouts become that a blameless producer would draw back the curtain and invite everyone to look at the true situation for himself. Governor Earle merely draws the curtain even tighter and blocks every effort to see the true picture.

"This election is important for you, for me, and for all the citizens of Pennsylvania. But it has an even broader significance. Other states are looking toward ours to find the key to the national trend for 1940. We are reminded of the literal significance of our state emblem, the Keystone. Pennsylvania is the key to the national situation. The very foundations of our state government are at stake. The solidarity of our keystone is threatened. Now a keystone, like any other stone, has three dimensions—length, breadth and depth. Each of these must be present for the stone to have substance. Similarly the government of our state has three parts, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Each branch is essential to the successful functioning of the state. But what has Governor Earle, with his 'little new deal,' tried to do? He has practically swallowed the legislature to increase his own girth. His attitude toward the judiciary was apparent when he hailed President Roosevelt's plan to devitalize the Supreme Court as the greatest advance for democracy in our lifetime. In other words Governor Earle believes in the omnipotence of one branch of our state government, the executive, I. E. George H. Earle. We don't call a form of government which makes congress and courts subservient to an all powerful executive, democratic; we call it a potential dictatorship! It's a topheavy, unbalanced structure, as formless as a key-stone of one dimension. The 'little new dealers' are afraid of the calm judgment of the Pennsylvania voters so they are using phrases like 'Forward with Roosevelt,' 'Keep Pennsylvania liberal,' 'Vote the straight Democratic ticket' to laud the new deal regime and damn our party as conservative and unprogressive. Let us analyze these terms carefully, then we can respond to them mentally rather than emotionally.

"I wonder who first conceived the idea that only the New Dealers wanted to go FORWARD? The Republicans want to go forward, too. They merely believe in proceeding a bit more cautiously. They know that simply dashing forward for the sake of the gesture is dangerous. For example, if, right outside this theatre, you walk east, you will be going forward. But when you reach the corner where Mill street turns into Radcliffe, it would be a bit silly, or chilly, for you to go straight FORWARD into the Delaware!

"I remember reading a story about a vain ruler in the South Sea Islands. (Incidentally, all characters in this story are strictly fictitious. No representation of any persons, living or dead, is intended!) This self-crowned king ruled his islands with an iron hand and was exceedingly proud of his unquestioned power over his well-drilled troops. In displaying their obedience before visitors, he once commanded them to march toward a high precipice. As they went to its edge he commanded 'Forward-March' and the line went 'forward', and each man fell to his death. . . . So you see there ARE times when it may not pay to go forward!

"We are also condemned by the new dealers as conservative. If you say irrefutably that two and two make four, you are a 'conservative.' 'How do you know,' a new dealer asks, 'that two and two make four?'

"Well, you say, as if to a child, 'They always have. It's simply a truth like the evolution of the earth around the sun.'

"'Bah,' he answers, 'You say that just because your father said it. How do you know that, under some circumstances, two and two might not make five?'

"And they wonder why they can't balance the budget!

"The Great God of the administration is Liberty. I like Senator Carter Glass' definition of a 'liberal.' 'A liberal,' says this real Democrat, 'is a man who spends OTHER people's money' and, I add, didn't have to work very hard for his own!

"We're also accused of being 'unprogressive.' Progress doesn't mean mere motion. It means improvement as well. Who gave the new dealers a monopoly on progressiveness? And, before the new deal industrial dent, who can deny the progress our state achieved under years of Republican leadership? It will carry on its progress after November 8th! YOU are going to see that it does.

"The people of Pennsylvania won't be fooled by misleading phrases. They cannot be bought by Utopian promises, or by temporary jobs. They cannot be bought by dollars and cents, but by COMMON SENSE.

"What do you mean by common sense? the new dealers ask. 'You Republicans constantly refer to it in reference to your candidates. It's an old-fashioned, outmoded term.'

"Yes, 'common sense' is an old-fashioned term. It is as old fashioned as truth. It means the sense of the common man and woman, the sense that two and two make four, that darkness follows sunlight, that democracies are better than dictatorships, that the man who earns his own dollar is the wisest about spending it. It is the quality that distinguishes these candidates here tonight. It is the quality that distinguishes the man you have chosen to be the leader of your party. It is as much a part of him as that straggling lock of hair over his forehead, which he smilingly calls his 'personality.' It's the quality which will make him encourage business in Penna. with its jobs for you and me. It's the quality which will enable him to have decent, honest and efficient government in Harrisburg. It's the quality which will reinforce the solidarity of our Keystone state, an equal balance of power between our three branches of government.

"This man of common sense, this man who is going to write 'Finis' to the farce at Harrisburg is described in the following verse, 'A Voter's Prayer.' Give us a man who knows sweat and grime, Whose life has not been an easy time, Who knows that today is followed by tomorrow.

That it's not always wise to borrow. Deliver us from the magnetisms That glow from those partial 'isms,' A man who'll admit another may be As wise, as kind, as great as he, With a smile that comes when a smile is due.

Not one that lasts the whole day thru, With a mind governed by common sense

That shows respect for precedents. A man who possesses an honest intent To abide by our chosen government. Who thinks experiments are nice. But best tried first in Labs, on mice. A man who believes that a God there may be, And that this God is really not he! This asks a good deal, it is true, We'll find it, though, Judge James, in you!"

enough to convince a woman she is enjoying 'a more abundant life' when her butcher's voice is telling her that meat has gone up five cents a pound. She wants to see higher wages, not higher prices. That is why she is going to support the Republican ticket on November 8th."

Bristol's own candidate, Howard I. James, Esq., who is seeking election as state senator from Bucks County, struck a responsive note with the audience when he quoted Judge Arthur James as saying that he (Judge James) was no Clark Gable. "As I gaze upon this enlargement of myself," said the well-known Bristol attorney, as he pointed in the direction of his picture overhead, "I am convinced that I am no Robert Taylor."

Continuing his facetious remarks the Bristol barrister referred to the fact that he once before had been a candidate, but that he had been "double-crossed." Mr. James referred to the time that he was elected a candidate to the Constitutional Convention, the act of which was later declared unconstitutional by the courts, and consequently Mr. James had been elected to an office which never existed.

"I am proud of Bucks County, and I am proud of this old town. Our town's an industrial center," said Mr. James, naming the various industries here. "Your success and mine depend upon the success of our industry."

"Has industry been encouraged by the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?" asked the speaker, and then he replied, "I say no."

"Old industries are being driven from our state, and new ones are being kept out by burdensome taxes. Other states are welcoming them with open arms, but not their present employees. They want the jobs for the residents of their own communities. And what is the result? The people in Pennsylvania who formerly worked in these industries which have now left the state, are being driven unwillingly into the arms of the WPA."

Mr. James said that Bucks County is an agricultural county, and called to the especial attention of agriculturists the reciprocal trade agreements, and in support of the fallacy of these agreements he quoted at length statistics showing the vast increase in importations of products of the farm.

"It is time for the American farmer to sit up and take notice, and to realize that he is being driven into competition with the farm products imported into this country from foreign shores."

Senator Owlett made the direct accusation that Governor Earle and the 13 high officials of his administration charged with graft and corruption in office, do not dare appear before the House investigating committee before election. "The answer is obvious to everyone in Pennsylvania," said the senator.

Senator Owlett charged that David Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth, and who is also state Democratic chairman, had deliberately certified an official election ballot which directly violated the election code by changing the wording of the instructions. He then explained at length how this wording had been so changed that if the instructions were followed thousands of voters would be tricked into an unwitting vote for the Democratic ticket.

nity where he has for a long period taken an active part in the civic and political life of the community and county.

One of his outstanding civic activities was in 1925 when he took a leading part in organizing the Trevoise Fire Company, and served as its treasurer. In 1926 he became justice of the peace of Bensalem Township. He was elected on the Republican ticket as tax collector for the township and served 1926-1929, both years inclusive. Although retired from active business he took a deep interest in extending the activities of the Kelly Street Business Men's Association of Philadelphia, of which he was a member. A like interest he devoted to the affairs of the Quaint Oak Building and Loan Association of Bucks and Philadelphia Counties. He was one of the Directors of the association. He was also a charter member of the Trevoise Horticultural Society.

On February 21, 1898, Mr. Biester married Anna Ditter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ditter, Philadelphia. Hon. J. William Ditter, member of Congress from Montgomery County, is a brother of Mrs. Biester. Mr. Biester was a 32nd degree Mason, and a member of Richard Vaux Lodge, No. 384, F. and A. M., and of the Scottish Rite Consistory, both of Philadelphia.

The funeral will be held on Monday at two p. m., at the late home of the deceased, with burial being private. Friends may call on Sunday evening between the hours of seven and nine.

Personal!

Here you may read the real story of why so many Pennsylvanians are idle today and others will be tomorrow. These are unsolicited letters from employers. They were not written for publication but as personal replies to a survey on the effect of excessive State taxation on business. By eliminating references, which might identify the senders, we are able to present these striking views to you. They are personally important to you, because whatever threatens the welfare of your neighbors and your State, likewise threatens the welfare of your family and yourself.

Pennsylvania's high taxes on business since 1935 unquestionably have been principally responsible for Pennsylvania having 25 percent more unemployment than the average for all States, as shown by the Federal Census of Unemployment. You can help put Pennsylvania back on the road to prosperity. You can help to make more jobs in Pennsylvania by urging the State Legislature at Harrisburg to readjust the present high taxes on business. Sign and mail the ballot below. It is important to you. It is important to the welfare of your State.

We are all fully aware of the fact that the State taxes are becoming most prohibitive and burdensome to the manufacturers in this State, and unless some drastic actions are taken on the part of the Legislature, the results will be most disastrous, as no one is able to raise sufficient cash to operate a plant and pay the taxes imposed by the City, State and Government, which are by far in excess of the income during recessions as we have been going thru for almost a year.

We have established plants in South Carolina and Georgia, as well as in Canada, transferring some of our operations to these different establishments, and unless some change takes place, there will be no alternative but to increase the capacity of our subsidiaries, where more favorable conditions exist.

Unfortunately, we have a plant; and until the burden becomes intolerable and we lose the hope that there will be a reversal of present policies, we will keep going. However, we are doing development work to enter a wider field, and we can assure you that the plant to care for that business will not be constructed in Pennsylvania if the present policies prevail.

Incidentally, the location of our present plant would not have been in Pennsylvania had the economic study to determine plant location been made in 1937.

We can't forever stand the heavy drain of present rate of taxation. For a few years we can forget all consideration of dividends and profits and permit a policy of maintaining top wages regardless of profits, but we can't continue it forever. The next move for some industries like ours will be lower payroll rates, and the reduction in payroll will come not so much from dismissing employees but from establishing lower payroll rates.

During the calendar year, 1937, this business would have shown a profit except for the taxes paid. Is a seer needed to predict how long a business can continue to exist when taxes are so high that the business cannot earn them? Who would ever have thought that the old fable-Goose & Golden Egg-could become a paramount question in the twentieth century?

To confine ourselves solely to the subject of state taxes, here is what we have experienced:

YEAR	INCREASE IN PERCENTAGE OVER YEAR BEFORE
1935	25%

These figures are not problematical; they are actual.

If business did improve so that we were operating on a profitable basis and could consider plant expansion, we would most certainly be stopped from consummating such expense because of the tax situation in Pennsylvania.

We have not seriously considered transferring manufacturing operations from the State, but we certainly would not consider under present circumstances as regards State Taxes, the erection of any addition to our plant, nor the enlargement of our present manufacturing facilities in any way. If and when additional capacity is required, we would be practically compelled to operate a branch in a different State.

To date the tax situation has not been directly responsible for the loss of jobs in this plant, but if it continues, there is no question that our organization will have to be reduced.

A project calling for the expenditure of from $15,000 to $25,000 has been held in abeyance because of the tax situation. If there were some assurance of some tax relief and a general legislative holiday, at least as affecting business, the expenditure of this money would be authorized immediately.

If we did not have to pay the State of Pennsylvania these excessive taxes we would of course have that much more money to spend for new equipment, which we need badly, and which of course would go into somebody else's payroll and therefore into productive industry.

If the excessive state taxes which we are now required to pay were removed it would without doubt enable us to reduce our prices and thereby hasten an increased demand for our products.

If these taxes were lower, we would certainly get a lot of business which now goes to competitors.

At the present writing, we are operating with about a hundred less men than we usually have. Moreover, until this last year, we have gone through every depression on full time, without knowing a slow spell. Until our prices got out of line, due to these state taxes.

Although we do not give thought to moving out of the State nor opening of branch out of the State, we do say that taxes will have to be reduced or we may be forced out of business which will place 100 men representing possibly 400 persons on the relief rolls of the State.

We have already made a study of just what these excessive state taxes are costing us versus what state taxation would be under similar conditions in a neighboring state. No definite decision has been made regarding moving, but the figures resulting from our study have caused us to give the matter serious thought.

We might state that our employees have had less work during the past year than for any year since we have been in business, and there is no doubt that the State Taxes and new Compensation rates are working a hardship on Pennsylvania Industries.

We made an addition to our plant about two years ago, but with the present trend of the State taxes and regulations we would not consider spending an additional penny for expansion.

Pico Named Secretary Of College Science Club

At a recent meeting of the Science Club of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College, Roman Pico, Bristol, was elected to serve as secretary of the organization.

This is Pico's first semester as a member of this club, and his election to an office is indication of his popularity and leadership among students on the campus.

Roman is a Sophomore in the Secondary curriculum at the college, but is also very interested in athletic activities. Last year he was one of few freshmen earning a place on the varsity gym squad, and while he did not participate in enough exhibitions to earn his varsity award, he earned a reputation as a gymnast of excellent ability.

Scholars Make Merry At Croydon Hallowe'en Party

CROYDON, Oct. 28.—A Hallowe'en entertainment was given by Croydon school pupils yesterday and enjoyed by all present. The announcer was Miss Anna Wilkie, and numbers included: Recitations, Hallowe'en, Russell Adrain; The Witches Are Riding, Ethel Unrath; The Golden Hallowe'en, Doris Scank; song, 6th grade girls, The Fun-ny Old Owl, John Welsh; A Vagabond Song, Louise Grew; October, Dorothy Strickler; A Hallowe'en Grouch, Doris Gonzalez; An Up-to-Date Witch, Lillian Grupp; A Hobo's Hallowe'en Ride, John Beers.

The teachers were in charge. There was no school today, which is Teachers' Institute Day.

In the afternoon the Hallowe'en pageant, a spectacular affair, took place in the school-yard, which was crowded with spectators. Nearly every child in the school was masked for the occasion.

NINETY GATHER IN BAPTIST CHURCH FOR A HALLOWE'EEN FROLIC

The Social Circle of First Baptist Church held a Hallowe'en party last evening in the Sunday School room, with 90 people attending.

A grand march was held for children, and one for adults. The children's prizes for costumes were won by Mary Ann Chamberlain, fancy dress, representing Charlie McCarthy; Fred Weik, original, dressed as an Indian; Helen Joyce Kelly, comic dress, representing a rabbit. Adult prizes were won by: Miss Winifred Tracy, fancy dress as the lady in black; Miss Roberta Pearson, dressed as a cat, most original costume; John Weik, comic costume, dressed in an evening gown.

Hallowe'en games were played with Alice Reese, Elizabeth Mariner and Jean O'Dea winning prizes.

Refreshments of cider, ginger-snaps, candy and apples were served.

ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL

One of the largest motion picture "locations" that has been held in recent months took place at Lone Pine, California, during production of the Republic Picture, "Army Girl," which will open at the Bristol Theatre today.

This spectacular film, starring Madge Evans and Preston Foster, has a background of an army post, situated near the Mexican border. A complete cavalry unit plus a large tank corps, play an important part in the story.

Republic Studios made arrangements with U. S. Army authorities for the use of several up-to-date tanks, and an entire cavalry unit was pressed into service during the picture.

All of these scenes were shot at Lone Pine, 350 horses were used, and including camera crews, technicians, and other workers, there were more than 400 people on the "town that was built over night, and lasted many days."

"Army Girl" promises to be one of the year's outstanding pictures. In addition to the stars—Miss Evans and Foster—the film has an excellent supporting cast.

BRISTOL-LANGHORNE TILT TOPS THE GRID BATTLES IN COUNTY

Game Booked To Be Played
On High School Field
Here Tomorrow

TILT AT BENSALAM, TOO

Fallsington and Newtown to Match Their Ability In Week-End Fracas

With all the Lower Bucks County grid outfits in action this week, football fans and followers of the scholastic ranks in this section will find plenty of good football along all fronts this week-end.

All of the teams except one will confine their activities on the gridiron to this section. The only team to go outside the County this week is Morrisville, who will take the bus and cross the river into Jersey territory where they will engage with the Jersey State Capitol eleven—Trenton High School. And although both Fallsington and Langhorne will also be on the road this week, they will remain within the county line, engaging in conference tilts. The other club which will not play a conference game is Bensalem. However, they will entertain on their home grounds, meeting the Pemberton Cornhuskers.

The Falls-Newtown game and Pemberton-Bensalem affair will be enacted on stage one this afternoon, while the Langhorne-Bristol and Morrisville-Trenton will go on tomorrow afternoon.

While the pair of tilts carded for tomorrow afternoon will no doubt be the biggest drawing card on this week's schedule, nevertheless, the other two games are rated just as big in their own respect to the clubs involved. In every one of the games to be played this week the rival clubs are on a par with the opposition which should result in some terrific struggles and close battles on all fronts.

On at Newtown today the invading Fallsington Falcons, who just last week lost a 20-0 decision to Morrisville, but who really played a much better brand of football than the score indicated, may give the Indians a tough afternoon before the decision is finally recorded in the books. However, Newtown is going places this year and with Nolan and Maher continuing their plundering, Coach Allard Tomlinson's boys should emerge the victors, especially since Falls lost some of their stars in the Bulldog battle. This will cripple and handicap the Falcons too much to expect them to halt the Indians' powerful running and passing attack.

Playing their second home game of the season, the Bensalem Owls entertain the Pemberton Cornhuskers, who have lost some tough tilts this season so far, as has the Owls. Against Mt. Holly, the Owls suffered a 31-0 shellacking, while Pemberton was walloped by the same club, 25-0. So if comparative scores mean anything, the game to be staged at Cornwells Heights should be a close one right up to the final whistle. And the winner in this tilt, like the rest of them, may be decided upon a break. But the Owls should break into the win column at the expense of Pemberton.

Tomorrow afternoon another series of Penn-Jersey rivalries to match the Bristol-Burlington contest and other such Penn-Jersey series, is in the making. When Morrisville invades the lair of Trenton High School, it will mark the first time the two clubs ever met on the gridiron in a regular scheduled contest. Last year, however, the two battled in a post-season fracas to decide the mythical championship of the Delaware Valley section. And that title will again be at stake in the coming battle for, in all probability, the winner will again annex the title. Having lost the game last year, 7-0, at Trenton, the Bulldogs seek revenge for that setback, and aided by the return of two regulars who were laid up with injuries, Bill Wilson and Bill Talone, the Golden Wave have a slight edge to upset Trenton High.

The biggest battle of the day for Lower Bucks fans, however, is the one which brings together an undefeated, untied and unscored upon Langhorne Redskins array and the Bristol Cardinals. With Bristol coming along rapidly recently and the Red Raiders fine record which they will carry into the tilt makes it that much more interesting. The question is, can Bristol repeat last week's success of knocking off an undefeated and unscored upon eleven? That will, however, be answered only when the final whistle blows, and even then it may not be definitely settled. Moreover, the game, of course, is a Lower Bucks conference tilt and that alone is a drawing card. But the outcome of this struggle may have a large bearing on the final standings of the clubs in the league.

While Langhorne will have plenty on their hands to maintain their unprecedented record, the Cardinals will also have no trouble of it in order to knock them off. The two clubs are well matched in an even struggle. And who knows but that the outcome may follow that of last year's tilt when the contest ended in a scoreless deadlock. However, Langhorne's record gives them a slight edge to take this game.

Numerous Costume Awards Given at C. D. of A. Party

The annual Halloween party given by Catholic Daughters of America, was held last evening in the K. of C. home. Nearly all attending were in masquerade costumes, and a grand march was held to determine the best costumes for prizes: Most original dress, Mrs. Samuel Hearn, Jr.; best dress, Miss Jane Lynn; comic dress, Mrs. William Ennis, Sr.; best impersonation, Mrs. James Connors; best Dinah, Mrs. James Cullen; best Hillbilly, Mrs. Warren Armstrong, Sr.; best historical impersonation, Mrs. Edward McIlvaine; best Gypsy, Miss Julia McFadden.

The judges were: Miss Catherine Strong, Mrs. Joseph David, Mrs. J. Woolley, Mrs. George Pollard, Mrs. E.

Finney, Miss Mary Clardy. Halloween games were played and for the treasure hunt Miss Jane Lynn won the prize, pie-eating contest, Miss A. Gallagher; radio impersonation contest, Miss Angeline Riley. Music was furnished by Silvio Clotti. Refreshments were served. The tables were attractive with lighted orange candles and cut flowers.

Members of the fourth ward had charge of this affair, and Mrs. Margaret Murphy was chairman.

JOLLY TIME

The annual Halloween party of the Sunday School of Harriman M. E. Church, was held last evening in the church basement. A grand march was held and costumes judged for prizes. Gladys Harris was awarded a prize for comic dress; J. Kempton, fancy dress; and Earl Vasey most original. Games were enjoyed and refreshments served.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George Bintliff, Jr., Edgely, this morning, in Harriman Hospital, a son.

In July that these charges must not only be publicly heard, but be quickly disposed of?

"Certainly there isn't anyone in the State who doesn't recall that the Governor in his letter to Senator Harvey Huffman said, and I quote him: 'It is imperative that charges against high public officials be heard publicly and disposed of at once.' Nor can they fail to recall that in that very same letter Governor Earle, while laying his plans for avoidance of inquiry, asserted: 'Public policy calls for fullest disclosure and the most complete discussion of the facts connected with these charges.' And again, in view of what has transpired, I must quote the Governor in his letter to Huffman, in which he said: 'Since these charges were first made I have exhausted every effort to force those who made the charges to submit them to public consideration.'

"The truth of the matter is that from the very beginning the Governor and his associates have exhausted every effort to prevent the testimony on the charges being brought before the public. The procedure before the white-wash committee is ample proof of this fact. Everyone knows neither the committee nor the Governor dares get at the bottom of the facts."

Senator Owlett also revealed to his audience the deliberate attempt on the part of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, David L. Lawrence, who also is State Democratic Chairman, to defraud Republican voters of Pennsylvania.

The Senator pointed out that the ballot certified by Mr. Lawrence to the County Board of Elections is illegal, contains words not prescribed in the election law for the official ballot, and is obviously the rankest kind of trickery in an effort to gain needed votes for the New Deal cause in Pennsylvania.

Senator Owlett charged that Lawrence deliberately certified an official election ballot which directly violated Section 1003 of the Election Code by a change in the wording of the instructions.

"The ballot as certified does not meet the specific requirements of the Election Code," declared the Tigra Senator. "Certified by the Secretary of the Commonwealth David Lawrence, who also serves as Democratic State Chairman, this ballot has been sent to the counties in which paper ballots are necessary for the purpose of tricking thousands of voters, into an unwitting vote for the Democratic ticket."

After explaining Section 1003 which clearly makes imperative the use of the words, "To vote a straight party ticket, mark a cross (X) in the square in the party column opposite the name of the party of your choice," Senator Owlett continued:

"The Secretary of the Commonwealth has deliberately changed these specific instructions to read:

"To vote a straight party ticket, mark a cross (X) in the first column opposite the name of the party of your choice."

"This illegal change is further emphasized on the ballot by underscoring the words 'first column.' Senator Owlett said: "The voter is also confused by the words, 'first column,' instead of 'party column,' and as it happens that the Democratic Party is in the first place in the column this held trick may cause the loss of thousands of votes."

"On the strength of this miserable effort to trick the electorate, the Republican State Committee has informed every county chairman requesting that they make immediate demand upon the election boards to throw out these illegal ballots and substitute ballots that conform with the election laws."

tration goes on to its ultimate conclusion. It is not those on relief and WPA who will lose the most. It is the class of people such as you and I. And if we are proud of our heritage, and we surely are, we are going to fight for those things we hold dear.

"What does America mean to you? The American way to me is an ideal—it is a way of life—a philosophy that has endured through the ages. It is for the survival of that ideal—that American way of life—that we are here this afternoon. For 200 years we have kept those ideals inviolate. Let us fight for them!"

Referring to Arthur H. James, candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, whose ancestors came to this country as immigrants, Mr. Livengood said: "To him and others like him, no doors here have failed to open, if the individual had the ability to open them, that is America."

"Don't let us slip into a spirit of lethargy. We need waking up. If those who have gone before us had taken such an attitude as I refer to, we wouldn't be here today. We have too many people in the State who haven't put a high price on their citizenship and heritage, and I think we are to blame. We have been too indifferent. Patriotism is nothing to hide. This is a serious problem."

Giving consideration to the youth, the speaker advised that: "We need to keep faith with the young people—to see that America is as safe and fine for them as it was for us to live in. We cannot fail them. We cannot let them down."

The apt words found in the book, "The Other Wise Man," were quoted by the speaker, who feels they fit in with the times: "It is better to follow even the shadow of the best, than to be content with the least; and he who would see wonderful things must often travel alone."

"America has stood for centuries as the light and hope of all mankind. It is up to you and me to see that America does not fail these people who put their trust in her. Let us be ever watchful of the harm the despots would do. You know these things that are going on. You must translate your knowledge into action. You can change Bucks County's usual Republican majority into an overwhelming majority. Go out and do something about it."

Another speaker of the afternoon introduced by Mrs. Cooper at this session which drew several hundred women to fill the country club, was Mrs. Hannah M. Durham, of Allentown.

"Wild horses couldn't keep me home this afternoon," said this ever forceful and popular speaker. "And I am going to tell you a secret. We are going to get out, not 60 per cent, but close to 100 per cent of the votes."

The backing of Arthur H. James by Luzerne County Democrats was told of by Mrs. Durham, as she mentioned the trend of political events; then she continued by telling of John McSparran, a former prominent Democrat, backing the Republican ticket.

"The Jeffersonian Democrats are disgusted with the New Deal group. And I have on several occasions recently been on platforms where Jeffersonian Democrats have introduced the Republican candidates they are backing. Don't you see what is happening? It never happened before, and this is my 37th campaign," added the one whose appearance and youthful spirit made the audience gasp at the statement.

"Why we have never had such meetings," continued Hannah Durham. "We are winning in spite of the terrific odds, and in spite of the state and federal treasury, and the fact that many are out of work. The drift is with us, and we are coming right through."

Speaking of the Congressional district, she told that: "When we send Charlie Gerlach to Congress, we'll have none of this 'Charlie McCarthy' rubber stamp business here." Giving but a small part of her time to the alleged dishonest work at Harrisburg by the present administration, Mrs. Durham said: "You know all about that. You read the papers."

Referring to the pictures of President Roosevelt which appeared last month on campaign signs for Democratic candidates in this district, Mrs. Durham reminded: "You know Roosevelt is still running everything from dog-catcher up. They (the opposition) don't realize this is a state fight. On the other hand, the campaign billboards for our candidates, James and Davis, are plainly printed, with their pictures, and the signs state the truth simply. 'For honest government.'"

Some discussion was given to Republican activity toward restoration of jobs in private industry. "You all know about the 15 plants that have left Allentown, and of the general exodus of business from Pennsylvania. And the Curtis Publishing Company tells us it will move to New Jersey if the Democrats continue in power. But, don't worry, that company won't have to move. . . . We are thrifty people here in this state, and our thrifty nature tells us the manner in which the business of the state is run can't continue. I have told you before that I am of Pennsylvania Dutch stock, and we were always taught to wash behind our ears and pay our bills."

Speaking of the attributes of Judge James, Mrs. Durham said: "He has brought back hope to the WPA and to the relief people in the state. They know there will be something permanent for them. They will be real citizens, and allowed to vote as they please. That hope is permeating all the way through with the people in Pennsylvania. You let them know that no one can tell how you vote in this state. The ballot is secret."

"We as Republicans and as good citizens want an opportunity for our farmers to run their own farms; for our business men to run their own business, and for our people to run our own state. We are being besieged and attacked from within by something that is more insidious than some countries of Europe have to contend with."

"Let us lift the pen from the hands of those signers of the Declaration of Independence who lie in Old Christ Church yard, and write our independence with it. And they will rise up and call us 'The Signers of the Declaration of Independence of 1938.'"

In opening the meeting of the afternoon, the second session of the day, Mrs. Cooper reminded that "We are nearing the end of a most strenuous and possibly the most important campaign that has ever taken place in Pennsylvania. The important thing is to send to Washington and Harrisburg those who will not be 'rubber stamps' but who will be thinking individuals."

Charles L. Gerlach, candidate for Congress from the Bucks-Lehigh district, who spoke in the morning, was also introduced in the afternoon. His address at the first session dealt with "the instability of the times, and the boogie of fear which has its headquarters in Washington." "Do a real job and put over the entire Republican ticket," he advised.

Assemblyman Wilson L. Yeakel, Perkasie, candidate for re-election from Bucks County, was another speaker of the afternoon, as was also Assemblyman Thomas B. Stockham, Morrisville. Mr. Yeakel told that when he first went to Harrisburg there were 14 Democrats and 194 Republicans in the list of Representatives, with the numbers gradually changing until now there are 153 Democrats and 55 Republicans. "And you know the conditions. Don't you think it time we about-faced?" Then he added: "If you will vote the straight Republican ticket from top to bottom, I will take it that you want me to do my part to help redeem Pennsylvania."

Mr. Stockham, also seeking re-election, said: "We are going to see a lot of excitement in this campaign, and we have reason to be excited. There is an aroused electorate, and a fearful people, because of the trend of the times. But we have every reason to be encouraged, because we have a right, through our vote privilege, to uphold the principles of our forefathers."

Music was provided by the Perkasie sextet, which group gave verses pertinent to the campaign.

The council president named delegates to the convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women to be held in Harrisburg, November 15, 16, 17.
